

September 22, 2025: On Being Stiff-Necked and Tied to the Wrong god

Here, we can see the stiff-necked feature of a ram caught in a thicket. The ram keeps ramming his way into trouble instead of re-evaluating his own self and relationship to the way of heaven and earth.

The more trouble the ram is in, the more force the ram uses to 'fight' his way out of it.

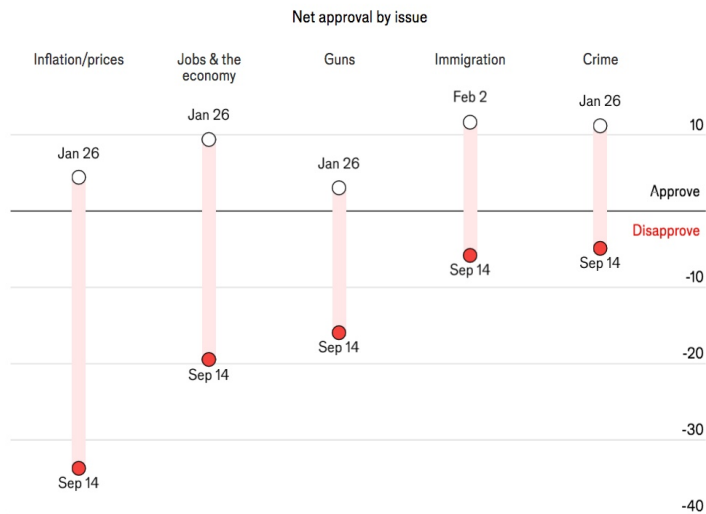

Unfortunately for the ram caught in the thicket, the continuing use of force to exert himself free of the problems only continues to get him further stuck inside of the troubling thorns.

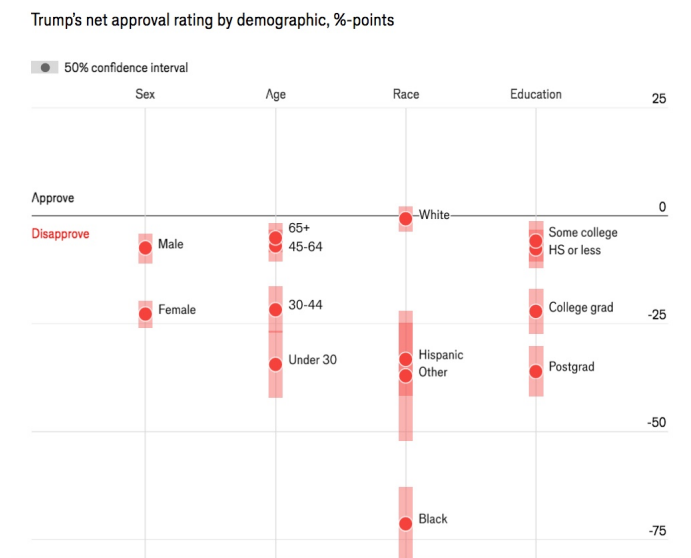

More Donald Trump exertion of his own way to solve the issues is resulting in him finding more and more disapproval (look at the slope line of August - September when this old man really ramped up his 'genius').

Donald Trump has lost the support of the people that he supposedly represents on every single issue - especially the issues that he is supposedly most qualified to represent as a successful (non-criminal haha) business person.

Donald has rammed his way to disapproval from every single demographic being polled today. And each demographic is really getting polled under his failed course of action - if you know what I mean.

Donald Trump is in a free fall of disapproval now and his voice only serves to enhance his own failures.

246 days into Donald Trump's term
The president's net approval rating is -17%, down 2.6 points since last week.
39% approve, 56% disapprove, 4% not sure

The only people that approve of Donald Trump's path at this time seem to be Israel's warring government.

Leaders and diplomats from more than 140 countries will convene on Monday in New York to advocate for a Palestinian state and peace in Gaza.

This does leave us all wondering who Donald Trump's administration actually represents as the entire world turns against them and Israel after witnessing 2 - 10 years of their combined rhetoric and actions. I would love to believe that there is hope for a turnaround as that would mean that we could be turning ourselves back to the right direction. But, everyone seems to be hating both Israel and Trump at this time.

From my understanding of the way of flowing freely, I am concluding that Donald Trump's American government and the government of Israel are both flowing freely into the wrong direction because of their consultations with the wrong god.

When the leadership is contracting to be led by satan and then expanding to arrive in a destination of yielding hell on earth, then after a while, the entire world turns against them.

The more we see of these two groups of stiff-necked war-lords, the more we disapprove of their way. Unfortunately, these rams that are caught in their thicket are just too dumb and too restless to stop fighting their way into deeper and deeper problems.
